Woman's death sparks demand to slow traffic on Versailles Road

Magistrates, residents lean on Cabinet to make changes

By Ben Carlson
News staff

A Lock Road resident made an impassioned plea Tuesday morning to have the speed limit lowered and alterations made to Versailles Road, and the Anderson County Fiscal Court listened.

By a unanimous vote, the court voted to send a letter to the state's Transportation Cabinet, asking that the speed limit be lowered to 45 mph from Hilltop Drive all the way the Tyrone Bridge. Not at the meeting were magistrates Buddy Sims and Kenny Barnett.

Phyllis Sharp delivered a petition signed by 39 residents of Lock Road, which intersects Versailles Road roughly halfway between Hilltop and the bridge.

Sharp said the speed limit needs to be lowered before "someone else is hurt or killed on that road."

School board approves working budget

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

The Board of Education unanimously approved its final working budget for the upcoming fiscal year during a special-called meeting on Sept. 26.

The budget, at $22.567 million budgeted in overall revenue and $21.095 million in operating expenses, is calculated based on a flat tax rate of $5.52 per $1,000 assessed value.

For the fourth year in a row, the board voted to keep the tax rate flat for 2012-2013. Because of growth in the tax base from Wild Turkey's expansion, however, tax revenue for the school district will increase by about $129,000 for a total $8.1 million in property tax revenue.

The budget also accounted for a $227,807 increase in salaries and benefits for Anderson County employees, with teachers receiving a salary step increase (based on years teaching and experience), plus a 1 percent raise in July. Support Education Excellence in Kentucky (SEEK) funding — which accounts for 56.62 percent of the district's overall revenue — decreased by about $587,000 from last year's budget for SEEK funds at $13.36 million.

During last Wednesday's special-called meeting, Board chairman Roger McDowell asked if there was a possibility of further reductions of SEEK funding in the coming year.

Superintendent Sheila Mitchell said last year the district did receive a mid-year cut in SEEK funding, and that there is always potential for mid-year cuts.

Other changes in this year's working budget include:

- Instruction- site-based decision making councils: $25,774 decrease for a total $713,850
- Other Instruction: $6,967 increase for a total $264,019

The increase in other instruction, according to Finance Officer Nick Clark, is to account for carryover for funding the site-based decision making councils, which are the governing bodies for each school in the district.

- Instruction-Related Technology: $78,484 increase for a total $150,950

Clark said the increase in instruction-related technology this year was due in part to a bill for the network upgrade implemented two years ago by the district. Initially meant to be paid in two parts — one half last year and the other half this year — the cost of the network upgrade will be included in its entirety for the upcoming fiscal year.

- Board Activities: $72,515 increase for a total $158,650

Clark said the increase for the Board Activities budget was due to a recoding of the Energy Management fees previously accounted for under the Superintendent's budget last fiscal year.

- Attendance services: $9,320 increase for a total $13,070

The district purchased a safe school training module that encompasses a variety of training including bullying training, sexual harassment training and blood borne pathogen training and materials for faculty and staff, Clark said.

- Superintendent's Office: $19,647 increase for a total $384,230

Clark said the re-classification of student accidental insurance and workers' comp insurance underneath the superintendent's office budget was the biggest item responsible for the increase.

- Principal's Office: $2,851 decrease for a total $7,787
- Operation of buildings:

$172,820 decrease for a total $1.086 million

The sale of the former Early Childhood Center on Main Street will contribute to an overall decrease in operation expenses and utilities, according to Clark.

- Maintenance Scheduling: $19,202 increase for a total $34,350

New maintenance vehicles and increases in supply accounts contributed to the overall increase of this line item, Clark said.

- Bus driving: $260,771 increase for a total $577,081

Clark said he increased projected fuel costs to $350,000 for the upcoming fiscal year.

The contingency fund, at $1.472 million, encompasses 6.29 percent of the overall operating expenses; the state recommends a minimum of 2 percent contingency and looks for about a 5 percent contingency.

McDowell said he was pleased with the current contingency rate for the district. "I think that's a huge sign that we're moving in the right direction," he said. "I think that shows good fiscal management. I'm pleased with that."

Final approval of math textbook purchase

The Board of Education unanimously approved to spend $13,733.71 on math textbooks for the pre-calculus class at the Anderson County High School.

Board president Roger McDowell said if the district maintains its contingency fund, then the board should revisit the instructional fee policy.

"That's one of the things I'd like to see eliminated, if we can afford it," McDowell said of the instructional fees.

She said that in the 50 years she has lived on Lock Road, no changes have been made to Versailles Road despite significant commercial and residential growth on the route that carries an array of commercial vehicles and passenger cars to and from work.

Her request comes just weeks after Lawrenceburg resident Marie Garmon was killed when her van was struck head-on by a dump truck, sending Lawrenceburg into a state of mourning and triggering Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway to call transportation officials and request the speed limit be lowered.

The investigation into that wreck is ongoing by the Kentucky State Police.

During Tuesday's meeting, Magistrate David Ruggles, who represents that portion of the county and has a farm on Lock Road, said Versailles Road has become very dangerous in recent years.

Ruggles said he has had "hundreds" of near-miss accidents attempting to turn onto Lock Road to access his farm.

"I'm not exaggerating. I can't tell you how many times I have near wrecks because it happens every week," Ruggles said. "I try to slow down to turn, but see a dump truck bearing down on me from behind, so at times I've turned even when I normally wouldn't think it was safe."

"It's a miracle there aren't more deaths and injuries on that road."

Following the vote Tuesday, Conway said

"I can't tell you how many times I have near wrecks because it happens every week. I try to slow down to turn, but see a dump truck bearing down on me from behind."

—David Ruggles
Magistrate

a letter will be drafted and sent to the cabinet's District 7 office along with Secretary Michael Hancock.

Magistrates acknowledged that they are powerless to force the speed limit to be reduced, saying that decision rests with state transportation officials.

Conway said he's already been told that the road will be added the state's long-range planning list to install turning lanes and other modifications, and that congested area signs are expected to be placed on the road very soon, along with 45 mph suggested speed signs.

Conway, who was quoted in The Anderson News several weeks ago about wanting the speed limit changed, bristled Tuesday about a letter to the editor in the following week's paper by Transportation Cabinet employee and Lawrenceburg resident Shawn Crowe, who said transportation officials aren't likely going to lower the speed limit.

In the letter, Crowe referred to Conway's request as "ridiculous."

"He called my request ridiculous and said the sheriff ought to do his work instead of being a tax collector," Conway said, who later added that a business owner on Versailles Road can recall a dozen vehicle deaths since he's been in business.

"Shawn Crowe doesn't speak for the cabinet," said Ruggles, who went on to criticize the letter. "In the beginning [of the letter] he says the road seems to be getting more dangerous. Well, it is. Then, in the rest of the [letter] he talks about how nothing needs to be done."

"I think the Shawn Crowes of the world who don't drive out there don't understand the situation."

Ruggles acknowledged that the road is classified as rural, but said residential and business development along that route have turned into an urban area, and that those capable of lowering the speed limit would be wise to listen to the fiscal court and those who live on or near Versailles Road.

"For someone in Frankfort, from the secretary on down, not to pay attention to this would be a mistake," Ruggles said.

Conway said he would wait to have the letter written because more petitions are being conducted as of Tuesday morning.

Cops to wait tables to help deputy's wife

From staff reports

Ever thought it would be fun to have a police officer wait on you hand and foot?

Those who show up at Edwardo's Pizza on Monday night will get just that and more as the Anderson County Sheriff's Office and Lawrenceburg Police Department team up to help the wife of a fellow officer.

All proceeds and tips received Oct. 8 at Edwardo's will help cover medical expenses for Traci Beasley, a Saffell Street Elementary School teacher and wife of deputy Patrick Beasley.

Traci suffered an aneurism last month and is expected to be out of work for several months.

Police officers will wait on tables and collect tips to help with her medical expenses between 6 and 8 p.m.

"We promise to do everything for you but cook the food," officers announced in a news release.

Burgoo a hit in Philippines, too

Restaurateur visits Lawrenceburg to attend annual county festival

By Meaghan Downs

Burgoo may be a Kentucky tradition, but it's also a top-selling menu item at a restaurant chain in the Philippines.

The slow-cooked Kentucky stew is the star entrée of Albert Alavera's restaurant chain Burgoo, a casual dining establishment with 11 different locations in metro Manila.

Alavera, who said he's a professionally trained chef, entrepreneur and managing director of the Burgoo chain, flew from his sister's home in Los Angeles to Lexington to experience Lawrenceburg's annual burgoo festival.

And, of course, to compare and sample the Kentucky original for himself.

With a camera and burgoo sample cup in hand, Alavera spoke with Lawrenceburg competitors during Saturday's Burgoo Cook Off, filming and taking photos of them as they manned burgoo stations on the Lawrenceburg Green.

"Each has its own quality," Alavera said of the competitors' burgoo, adding that of the three burgoo recipes he'd tried so far that afternoon, Four Roses Distillery's was closest to what his Philippine restaurants serve.

Alavera said he learned about Anderson County's festival a few years ago simply by googling "burgoo," but finally decided to come to Kentucky this year while visiting his sister in California.

"When I opened Burgoo in the Philippines, I never thought there was a burgoo festival," Alavera said.

According to Alavera, the historically American stew fits in well with the American-style cuisine prepared in his Burgoo restaurants, which he first opened in 1999.

After all, the restaurant's goal is to serve "American food, American size in an American way," according to the Burgoo website.

Burgoo is one of the top menu items, he said, and that he enjoys bur-

Albert Alavera, managing director of the Philippine restaurant chain Burgoo, samples traditional burgoo at the 2012 Burgoo Festival held last weekend. Alavera flew from California to sample the Kentucky original burgoo that's become a top seller for his Philippine restaurants, and to write an article about his experiences in Lawrenceburg.

goo for its slow-cooked consistency.

"When you eat burgoo, you don't exert effort in eating the meat," Alavera said. "The meat is very tender. There is a distinct taste to burgoo that is different than other stews I've tried."

According to Burgoo's website about the history of the Kentucky dish, "During the 17th century, burgoo was prepared mixing different meat that includes goat, squirrel, deer or any other game caught during the day and different vegetables, herbs and spices."

The Philippine interpretation of burgoo varies from the Kentucky version, Alavera said, featuring chicken, beef and pork.

"I make sure those are good quality," he said.

Alavera — who said his favorite kind of American cuisine to cook is Cajun — also adds staple vegetables like carrots, potatoes and tomatoes and spices to his burgoo.

The Burgoo restaurant, according to its website, offers a hamburger version of the stew known as "Hamburgoo" — a mixed-meat patty of chicken, beef and pork topped with onions, cheese, tomatoes and pickle on a sesame seed bun — and even Burgoo kebabs.

Alavera plans to write an article about his burgoo festival experience in Anderson County, to let Filipino readers know how burgoo is done here, and said he'd like to submit his work to various Philippine newspapers for publication.

Though burgoo is already a tradition for his restaurants, coming to the annual Anderson County festival may also become a tradition for Alavera.

"I think I'm going to come back, I'm always going to come back. Definitely," Alavera said.

Student fees leave parents steaming

Annual Burgoo Cook Off a rousing success

Column as I see 'em ... While many folks had visions of steaming pots of burgoo dancing in their heads this past week, others were just steaming over what they consider incessant fees some students are forced to pay to receive their "free" government education. I've had several complaint calls and visits during the past week or so from parents fuming over high school students having to pay $10 to park their cars and the $50 "student fee," both hidden taxes disguised as something else. We've discussed the student fee to death, which is the district's way of purchasing textbooks while freeing up money to pay for more vital educational tools. Fortunately, children who pay for only a portion or nothing at all for their lunches don't have to pay that fee; that's for parents in the much-maligned 1 percent to deal with. The parking fee is a bit more mysterious. Why children need to pay to park on a lot taxpayers have already purchased and paid to have paved is beyond me, unless of course that $10 is being held in a kitty to repave it in the future. For some reason I doubt if that's the case. I also have no idea if students who receive taxpayer purchased ... errrr ... free and reduced lunches get the same deal on parking as they receive on their "student fee," and force the 1 percent to pay the freight on that, too. Then there was the man who claimed his child was required to pay $1 to attend a pep rally during last week's homecoming festivities. What's next, pay toilets?

Ben Carlson
Publisher

Speaking of steaming pots of burgoo ... a huge shout out to those who made our annual Burgoo Cook Off a rousing success again this year and will help some children in need have a much merrier Christmas. Held Saturday on the Green, we had six teams vying for the coveted title, including defending champion Four Roses along with Wild Turkey, Atmos Energy, Anderson Realty, the Christian Academy and Rising Sons Winery. Jesse Sanford and Jeff Royalty of Four Roses successfully defended their title, although Rising Sons and Atmos weren't far behind. Wild Turkey's team was running strong during its first year of competition, but ran short of burgoo and missed out on votes that could have easily landed them in the top five. Some of the teams went all out on their booths. Atmos had a Harley-Davidson theme, while Wild Turkey actually assembled an old-style saloon complete with swinging doors in the shape of, you guessed it, wild turkeys that were created by Steve Shryock of Bluegrass Signs and Art. Steve also tightened me up by altering the banner he provided last year at no charge to reflect this year's information. Not to be outdone, the centerpiece of the Four Roses booth was a real bourbon barrel rigged up to hold a burner and burgoo pot that the team stirred with a large copper paddle. Very cool, indeed. Special thanks are due to Mayor Edwinna Baker's office for allowing us to use the Green for this event; the Burgoo Festival committee for putting up with us for yet another year; Chief Deputy Joe Milam and his wife, Terri, for collecting donations from our judges; financial advisor Ken Clark of Ken Clark and Associates for helping tally the votes; and David Brown of Events Imaging and Awards for providing this year's trophy. We had a tremendous crowd and raised several burgoo pots worth of money for Sheriff Troy Young's Shop With a Cop program.

Speaking of stirred ... All of the recent talk about lowering the speed limit on Versailles Road has me wondering why anyone who drives over 35 mph while headed toward Versailles isn't ticketed. Two people contacted me during the past week and pointed out that final speed limit sign on that highway is for 35 mph and is located just before Hilltop Drive. The next speed limit sign can't be found until just before Falling Springs in Woodford County. Of course the speed limit is 55 mph unless otherwise posted, but it is posted on the highway and it's 35. Obviously there is a 55 mph sign missing somewhere between Hilltop and the bridge, but how are the tens of thousands of dis-tillery tourists supposed to know that? Having them putt along at 35 mph doesn't help quell the hurry up attitude of those trying to get to and from work, and people in a hurry aren't always the safest drivers on the road.

Consider the cockroach

The view from an airplane window made it possible to dream of living in a cloud. On Sunday, I found out what living in a cloud was like. I never want to know again. The equation is simple. Autumn mornings plus the mixing of cool and warm air over the Kentucky River equals a Tyrone Pike bridge enveloped in a fog so thick you could scoop it into cupped hands. As I was driving around the bend past the sweet scent of bourbon mash from Wild Turkey Distillery, the science behind the curtain of fog — hanging right in front of me — didn't cross my mind. This journey into fog is probably one many of you have taken. Possibly on the same time of day on the same bridge connecting Woodford and Anderson counties. But unlike the many, I was new to the terror of blindly going where I dared not drive. Panicking, I weighed my choices: turn around and risk causing an accident, or move forward into the dangerous blindness on a narrow bridge high above the river. For better or worse, I chose blindness. In the minutes it took to drive across the bridge, I thought hours of silence ticked by while I squinted at the opposite lane of traffic, looking for the danger of yellow headlights. I heard nothing but my short, raspy breathing as my car poked a rectangular hole through the fog bank. I saw nothing but the white cloud surrounding me. I thought of nothing except short phrases shoved together in fear. Beautiful. Terrible. Please get me out of here. Later, when the fog cleared, I thought of the cockroach. Cockroaches, an indomitable example of insect resilience, are physically incapable of moving backward. It's one of their

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why no furlough for city employees?

To the editor:

I am a state employee. We have taken furloughs to help with the budget crisis and the recession.

I am just wondering why can't our city officials do the same? I know this can't be possible with law enforcement but why not with other non-emergency staff?

With no raises given, gas prices on the rise and cost of living increases, the residents of Lawrenceburg can't afford any more tax increases.

We need to put this pressure on our city officials.

Please return prescription sunglasses

To the editor:

This letter is a plea to the person who found a pair of prescription sunglasses in the restroom at Goodwill on Sunday, Sept. 23.

They belong to a great-grandmother who cannot afford to replace them.

They were purchased two weeks ago and are really necessary.

As you can tell they have bifocal lenses and extra-dark tinting because of an eye condition.

Please return them to the Goodwill store, or drop them in the mailbox at 1013 Bradley Drive.

It will be greatly appreciated.

Re-enactment entertained, educated

To the editor:

I would like to thank those involved in the recent Civil War reenactment of the Battle of Dog Walk.

Based on attendance, this event was a tremendous success. The information provided from the living history was both educational and entertaining.

Guests were presented with previously unknown history of Anderson County.

Future events of this nature would be beneficial for Anderson County for educational and economical value.

Medical clinic thankful for support

To the editor:

The Anderson County Community Clinic and its fundraising committee thanks those who helped to make our fundraiser, 2012 Grill Master Grill Off on Sept. 22, a success. The event, held at the county park, raised $808 with donations still coming in to help with operation and maintenance of the clinic.

There was great grilling competition between the entrants that created a tough decision for the judges to declare an overall winner. Children enjoyed the face painting and crafts. Entertainers gave awesome performances all day long. People who attended, donated money and spent money on the silent auction and raffles helped the clinic in many ways.

Our thanks go to those who attended in support of the fundraising effort, grillers, judges, performers, Brenda Gardner of Art Emporium, Meaghan Downs, The Anderson News, Kathleen James of Body by Vi, Kirsty Savoie of Mary Kay, Anderson County Fire Department, Barbie Shifflet of Shear Talent, Melissa Hanks and Emily Durr of 855 Salon & Med Spa, Gash Memorial Chapel, and all the Helping Hands members, who worked hard prior to, during and after the event.

Thanks also go to UK Coach John Calapari, Windstream of Lexington and Annie's Shop.

Winter is coming, so be prepared

Wow, burgoo is over and October is here. What happened to September? I swear time speeds up the closer we get to winter.

The 30 days each had 24 hours, but they just seemed to go by in a fraction of the time. While I'm not behind on my winter prep schedule, I do feel a certain urgency pushing me to get even more done. All because I don't like cold, yucky weather.

I had a reader ask me about my winter weather forecast the other day. I told her to wait until October. I should have said late October. I'm still waiting on some of the weather lore signs I use. Some have already passed. If anthills are high in July, winter will be snowy. There were no high hills this year, but wait ... there's more.

If the first week in August is unusually warm the coming winter will be snowy and long. It was hot. For every fog in August, there will be a snowfall in winter. Only one fog. As high as the weeds grow, so will the bank of snow. We had so little rain, hardly anything grew tall, except the weeds.

Weather lore also tells of a tough winter ahead if cornhusks are thick and tight (they were, I shucked three bushels.), berries and nuts were plentiful (the bumper crop of berries dried up but I seem to have fewer walnuts carpeting the ground so I'll count these as neutral).

Thunder in fall foretells a cold winter (we had plenty of thunder the first week of fall). So far, these add up to two points for a mild winter and 4 points for a tough one. Now, we need to watch for the other predictors about to begin.

The leaves are one of my favorite signs to watch. The old saying goes "When leaves fall early, fall and winter will be mild; when leaves fall late, winter will be severe." I just remember it by thinking in rhyme, if leaves fall late, winter won't be great. Next up is watching the flowers.

Flowers bloomin' in late autumn, a sure sign of a bad winter comin'. Much rain in October, much wind in December.

A warm October, a cold February. Full moon in October (Oct. 30th) without frost, no frost till November's full moon (Nov. 29th). A warm November is the sign of a bad winter. If the first snowfall lands on unfrozen ground, the winter will be mild. That's a hopeful thought.

The woolly worms are starting to cross the roads, but I haven't seen enough. Just remember, the wider the middle, brown band, the milder the winter. I want a lot of brown. After deer season gets into full swing, we'll know how much fat they have this year. The more fat, the more cold we'll have. That's it. That's all my signs to watch.

Now, if you're like me, when it comes to winter you'd rather be indoors than out, so get yourself in gear.

Finish the planting and pruning. Clean the chimney and chop the wood. Unhook the hoses and clean and store the tools. Get your vehicles lubed and oiled and don't forget to check your tires.

Then, and only then, can you hibernate into the comfort of your home. Well, not really, but you'll feel better if you do.

There are only 12 weeks left until Christmas. That ought to put a spur under your saddle. Happy growing.

Battle of Perryville steeped with historical importance

Oct. 8 marks the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Perryville, which ultimately led to who would control Kentucky during the Civil War.

Kentucky, a border state, was very important to both the Union and Confederate forces. The Union victory ultimately helped persuade President Abraham Lincoln to issue his Emancipation Proclamation.

At the outset of the Civil War, Kentucky claimed neutral status even though Kentucky was a slave holding state. Kentucky was very important to both the northern and southern states. The northern states needed Kentucky's loyalty for the preservation of the Union. The confederacy needed Kentucky's support because of all the raw resources and supplies Kentucky had in abundance.

Ironically the presidents from both sides of the Civil War were born in Kentucky. Now they both needed Kentucky's support. We see the importance of Kentucky in President Lincoln's most famous quotes "I hope to have God on my side, but I must have Kentucky" and "I think to lose Kentucky is nearly the same as to lose the whole game."

Soon after the war started Kentucky lost its neutrality. From the onset both Union loyalists and southern sympathizers were organizing themselves both politically and with arms and ammunition. It was the Confederate army that struck first taking the town of Columbus. Shortly thereafter Union forces commended by Ulysses S. Grant seized Paducah.

Forces from both side started pouring into the state in an effort to control Kentucky. By late 1861 Union supporters had won majorities in both the state House and Senate and proclaimed Kentucky's status as pro Union. Confederate sympathizers then set up their own government called the Provisional Government of Kentucky. Their capitol was Bowling Green.

During this time Kentucky was being governed by two separate governments. The battle at Perryville will settle this issue.

In the early part of 1862 Union forces controlled most of the state. That is until Confederate cavalryman John Hunt Morgan made a highly successful raid into central Kentucky. Morgan was a native of Lexington and businessman there before the war. So he was familiar with the area. He captured over 1,200 Union forces and seized much needed supplies for the Confederate troops in Tennessee.

Union reports went back to Lincoln "they are having a stampede in Kentucky." His raid was so successful that it convinced Confederate generals Braxton Bragg and Kirby Smith to organize a major Confederate push into the state.

The Confederate advance left Tennessee and marched into Kentucky was very successful at first. Kirby Smith drove north and met Union forces at Richmond. Here the second largest Civil War battle in Kentucky took place, the Battle of Richmond was one of the most decisive and complete Confederate victories in the entire war. The Confederates were now in a good position to take the state. They even for a very short period of time controlled the state capitol in Frankfort.

Meanwhile Confederate General Braxton Bragg, thinking the objective of the Union army was Lawrenceburg, ordered both his and Smith's armies to concentrate at that place. Kirby Smith then moved his army to Lawrenceburg, Bragg's army moved toward Lawrenceburg as well. However, its line of march brought it through Perryville where Union forces were.

The Battle of Perryville, fought Oct. 8, 1862, finalized Confederate General Braxton Bragg's famous "Kentucky Invasion." During the battle, the Confederates held early advantage until Union reinforcements could arrive. The Battle of Perryville was a Confederate tactical victory, though the heavy fighting and bloodshed forced Bragg's hand. Confronted by a larger force and running low on supplies, Bragg withdrew toward the Cumberland Gap. His army would never return to Kentucky.

This victory for the Union as well as victories in Corinth, Miss., and at Antietam, Va., that fall, were the victories Lincoln needed to boost the sagging morale in the north. Lincoln was losing support for the war up to this point. He would use these victories to issue his Emancipation Proclamation. It turned a war to save the Union into a moral war to end slavery. Kentucky slaves were finally freed when the 13th Amendment to the Constitution was ratified in December 1865.

Diabetic? Be ready in case of disaster

There are some general health tips that you should remember during a disaster. These are very important in the proper care and management of your diabetes.

Communication plan

- Identify family meeting places within and outside the neighborhood. Include escape routes (two ways out of every room in your house).

- Plan how to stay in contact if separated. Make a list of e-mails and phone numbers of each family member. Also list phone numbers of out-of-town relatives or friends for each family member to contact. Be sure everyone has coins, cell phone, or prepaid card.

Build a supply kit

- Include basic supplies. Water, food, first aid supplies, clothing and bedding, battery powered weather radio and flashlight, extra batteries, important documents and cash/credit cards.
- Don't forget your diabetes supplies. Fanny pack for medications/testing supplies. Include an insulated bag for emergencies when no refrigerator is available.

Make sure you have your blood glucose meter with extra lancets and test strips. Keep all medications including insulin/supplies in original containers or the prescriptions. Keep a glucagon emergency kit in your supply kit. Also include foods to treat hypoglycemia, such as glucose tablets/gels, juice, hard candies, and regular sodas. Place a pair of comfortable footwear in your kit also.

Be informed

- Know the nature or man-made disasters that might happen in your area.
- Know the location of the fire departments, police stations, and hospitals in your area.
- Learn your community's warning signals.

Take safety measures

- Know the location of water/gas/electricity shut-offs
- Be sure to have smoke and/or carbon monoxide detectors and test them monthly
- Post all emergency phone numbers near all phones
- Organize and practice family drills.

For more information about Diabetes Care during a Disaster, contact the Anderson County Health Department at 839-4551 or www.wachdonline.org, or see resources from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention many talents, including fast reflexes and apparent immortality.

We don't often champion the virtues of the cockroach. It's an unnatural word-association to link "progress" and "cockroach" together. Similar to the word-association of "cute" and "cockroach."

But as the pounding of my heart took over the thinking of my brain, I believe I took on the mindset of the cockroach: Don't stop. Don't turn back. Plunge forward because forward is the only choice left.

The cockroach doesn't have any choice. Moving forward has been biologically determined for them.

But we, being human beings and all, have the cognitive ability to make choices. Many choices, in fact. Sometimes, so many possibilities we're distracted by the choice to make a choice.

When we talk about life, there are two schools of logic: choice and fate. It's a debate as old as time itself, and manifests in every arena: Are we determined by environment or experience? Do we regard others as victims of circumstance or their own life choices?

As for me, I'm not a member of either the Choices or Fate camps. Life is too complicated to slap on a label of "Choice!" or "Fate!" for every situation; it's too exhausting to argue who determines what and why.

The more of life I've seen — and at 23, it's honestly not that much — the more I don't seem to understand, to be able to break down and process.

Trapped in the fog, I only knew what the cockroach knows — keep moving.

Staying strong while parting with her first pony

Freshman relives difficult decision to sell 'best friend'

Editor's note: Carson Tarter is a freshman at Anderson County High School in Melanie Valdivieso's composition class. Her personal narrative assignment appears here with her permission.

For the past three years my whole life has revolved around riding and taking care of my first pony, Luke. I never dreamed that I'd have to sell my best friend. However, somewhere in between all of the horse shows and riding lessons, I started to grow. Not only did I grow in height, but I was starting to become a more advanced rider, too. I needed a bigger, quicker and more athletic horse. If I wanted to improve at riding, I had some really tough decisions to make. It was a Friday night in February after school, and I had just been informed that someone was interested in buying Luke. My parents, my brother, and I all piled into our huge silver Ford F-150 and drove out to meet Luke's potential new owners. After getting to know each other, introducing Luke and sharing stories for a while, Bert Welker, the man interested, spoke up. "Well, I'm willing to pay full price for him. He's a nice horse and I'd love to have him at my barn for trail rides," he said. It was in that moment that everything became real. I couldn't talk; I was torn between excitement and devastation as I swallowed my tears. "It'll all be OK. Just breathe," I thought, taking a few deep breaths. We arranged to drop Luke off the following Sunday so I could have one more day to spend with him. My dad shook Bert's rough hand and it was a deal. We climbed back into the car and drove home. Once I was finally in the comfort of my own home, I couldn't hold back my tears anymore. I escaped up the stairs, locked myself in my bedroom, and cried myself to sleep. Saturday morning I woke up with a game plan. I got dressed and didn't even bother covering up my crusty, puffy eyes. I was going to smile through the tears and enjoy my last day with my beloved first pony. After we arrived at the farm on that gray, foggy morning, I pulled Luke out of earshot of everyone else. "You'll always be my best friend, no matter where we go or what we do. Please know that I love you," I said. I stroked his soft white nose and planted a kiss on his forehead, letting the hot tears roll down my cheeks and drip onto his shaggy fur. I spent about an hour just riding and enjoying my time with him, feeding him treats and cantering around the yard. I smiled a teary smile and looked at my parents. "I'm ready for this. I know it's time to let him go, and I'm strong enough to say that I'm not sad anymore. I'll always love him and remember our great times," I said. With one last kiss on the muzzle, I knew I was prepared. I didn't cry a single tear for the rest of the day. Sunday arrived way too quickly and before I knew it we had loaded my fuzzy, four-legged friend onto our rusty two-horse trailer. After loading up my dad gave me bear hug. "I know this is hard, but I'm so proud of you. It's OK to cry. Not many girls your age are this tough," he assured me. Forty-five minutes later we were pulling through the gates of Luke's new home, Silverton Farm. The clouds revealed a shining blue sky as I unloaded Luke and led him into his extravagant new home. I walked into his stall for some alone time with him. Gazing into his icy blue eye I whispered, "There will never be another horse quite like you. Thank you for teaching me everything I know." I made sure to scratch every sweet spot one last time and promised to return for a visit soon. One last hug, and I was finally ready to leave. "He's got such an amazing new home," I thought, looking around at the huge box stalls and expansive green paddocks. Thanking his new owners, I made my way back toward the car so no one would see me cry again. My brother Wyatt was walking beside me with one arm slung over my shoulders. "You're staying so strong, and that's exactly what Luke would want," he said, wrapping me in a tight hug. On the car ride home that day, I reminisced about my paint pony. I knew I had done the right thing. I'm glad I made that tough decision, even though it left a big hole it left in my heart. And besides, I was looking forward to progressing as an equestrian.

Second graders raise money for Buddy Walk

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

Two students and friends from Emma B. Ward Elementary are raising money and looking for registered walkers for the 10th annual Buddy Walk on Oct. 6. Second graders Jordan Ball and Elijah Penn have participated in the Buddy Walk for the past few years to raise money for the Down Syndrome Association of Central Kentucky organization. "Jordan's Team" raised $7,802 last year and rewarded for his efforts by being featured on a billboard advertisement for the 2012 Buddy Walk. Elijah hopes to be the next one on a billboard by being the team with the most registered walkers for the event, according to Elijah's mother Darlene Penn. Elijah's team was about 20 registered walkers away last year from achieving the goal of being on the billboard, Darlene said. As of Friday afternoon, "Elijah's Construction Crew" had 88 registered walkers and was in the lead.

Fundraiser for Buddy Walk

A fundraiser for "Elijah's Construction Crew" will be held at Stink's Diner, located at 1085 Eagle Lake Drive behind Best Donuts shop, on Thursday, Oct. 4 from 5-8 p.m. All drink proceeds and donations will go toward Elijah Penn's Buddy Walk team, which will be raising money for the Down Syndrome Association of Central Kentucky (DSACK) organization on Saturday.

This year will be the third year Elijah has participated. "It's a lot of fun, and of course, the money is for a good cause," Darlene said. The Buddy Walk registration and family fun activities will be from 9:30-11 a.m., with the Buddy Walk from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m. A lunch celebration will be held from 1-2 p.m. To register or donate for both Jordan and Elijah's teams, visit <http://www.buddywalk.kintera.org/dsack> and look for "Jordan's Team" and "Elijah's Construction Crew." The Buddy Walk will take place at the Thoroughbred Center, Paris Pike, in Lexington.

Senior Crime College program to be held at public library

From staff reports

Anderson Public Library and the Kentucky Attorney General Jack Conway's office will be hosting the Program Senior Crime College on Oct. 16 from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Anderson Public Library.

According to a press release from the library, the program will teach senior citizens how to avoid becoming victims of scams and who to alert if they feel they are being targeted.

Lunch will be provided. Space is limited to 30 patrons. Registration is required. Sign up by calling the library at (502) 839-6420 or speaking with someone at the circulation desk.

Topics to be covered include bogus sweepstakes and lotteries, false employment opportunities, phony government stimulus checks, fake debt-relief scams, identity theft and others. According to event organizers, "the majority of these scams request personal and financial information in exchange for the promise of money."

Some helpful tips for seniors, provided by the library, are:

· Beware of home solicitors. Keep the door closed to people you don't recognize, talking through the storm door if necessary. Door-to-door repair people are included in this warning.

· Research the product, service, company, or charitable organization before you buy or contribute money.

· Don't do business with unsolicited callers, especially those offering to "fix your credit," "consolidate your loans," or those claiming to be from Medicare, Medicaid, or Social Security. These callers may mention that they are having difficulty depositing your stimulus payment, or need to verify your information in order for you to receive the payment. They are looking to steal your identity or take money from your bank account.

· Never cash a check that you have received with a sweepstakes or lottery letter. If the letter instructs you to cash the check and wire money to pay for "fees" or "insurance," don't do it. The check is counterfeit and the bank will hold you liable for the funds.

Can you find Christians in Lawrenceburg?

Are you a Christian? It's a very simple yes or no question.

Most people typically will say they are a "Christian" here in Anderson County. Now, I ask you if you are currently making new Christians or disciples of Christ? Are you? If not, are you really a Christian? Can you count how many people you have personally shared the story of Jesus with? Is the answer a couple, a hundred, perhaps none? It's interesting that the very last words Christ spoke commanded us to make disciples or all nations. A person's last words are very important, mind you.

Jess Thompson

After Christ was crucified and before his ascent into heaven, he commands his disciples in Matthew 28:19, "Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit."

In Mark 16:15, Christ says, "Go into all the world and preach the good news to all creation."

Folks, either you are or you are not actively witnessing and sharing God's Word.

If you are not and you are a professing Christian, are you really entitled to call yourself one?

If you saw someone choking to death in a restaurant, and you knew how to do the Heimlich maneuver, would you save their life?

We come in contact each and every day with people who are eternally damned with no hope of eternal life, yet we are totally indifferent to their perishing, hopeless condition. In the words of Jonathan Edwards, "I pray that if someone is doomed for Hell, they will have to leap over me to get there."

There is a true story about a gospel preacher who was on the Titanic, and after placing his daughter on a life raft, was plunged into the icy waters of the Atlantic.

As he drifted, clinging desperately to the debris, he called out to a 25-year-old young man also in the frigid water, "Man, are you saved?"

The young man answered, "Sir, I am not." "Then call upon the name of Christ, and he will save you."

The young man watched the preacher slide into the depths of the ocean, but he called out to God who miraculously saved him.

This story is known only because the saved individual sought out the minister's daughter to tell her that with his dying breath, her father was proclaiming the gospel to a lost sinner.

Are you a "fan" or a "follower?"

Most people in Anderson County have an intellectual awareness of who Christ is, but do you have a life surrendered to Jesus Christ, to be the people that Christ calls us to be?

Jess Thompson is a resident of Lawrenceburg and faith columnist for The Anderson News. Reach him at jessinlawrenceburg@gmail.com.

THE FOOL VS. GOD

Psalm 14:1 "The fool has said in his heart, There is no God."

To make such a statement ("There is no God") or declaration, one must possess the qualities of God. He would have to know all, be everywhere at once and be eternal, and I haven't met such a MAN. A fool can be defined as: without reason, a reckless and inconsiderate habit of mind, the lack of commonsense perception of the reality of things natural and spiritual.

The unbeliever is going to have to relegate himself to the level of a mere beast who came about by complete chance and in so doing deny his own intelligence or at least being unable to defend his intellect. He is also going to have to deny all of the evidence for intelligent design. When one considers logic and true scientific truths the unbeliever is utterly unprepared to say there is no God and proving it. Again for one to deny the existence of God they would have to be god, well maybe that is what some men want to be, a god.

Psalm 104:24 "O Lord how manifold are your works. In wisdom and you have made them all; the earth is full of your riches." Isaiah 40:25-26 "To who then will you liken me that I should be equal to him? says the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high, and see who created theses, that brings out their host by numbers ... " Neh. 9:6 "Thou, even thou, art Lord alone; Thou has made the heaven, the heaven of heavens with all their host, the earth and all things that are therein."

Not impartial when it comes to the Reds

Incredible summer is not over yet

I admit it. Sitting in the Sun Deck at Great American Ball Park last Thursday I never really lost hope. Sure, the Reds were trailing the Milwaukee Brewers 1-0 in the bottom of the ninth inning. Sure, Zack Cozart and Joey Votto had struck out. I still had hope. Call me a Reds fan, if you like. You'd be making the understatement. I am a huge Reds fanatic. Have been since Jim Maloney was blowing National League batters away and Leo Cardenas was one of baseball's most underrated shortstops. But I also had been paying attention. It's kind of hard to miss when a baseball team has 11 walk-off wins in a season you know. Look at that. Frazier's ball has a chance. It's gone! We're tied! I high-fived a total stranger. Two batters later, Dioner Navarro had teased us with a pair of monster shots that hooked foul. When he finally straightened one out to score Jay Bruce with the winning run, I kissed my wife. Then high-fived a bunch of total strangers. Suffice it to say, when it comes to the Reds, I am not an impartial observer. I'm as giddy as can be that they not only won the National League Central, but have a real shot to bring the World Series trophy back to Reds Country. And suffice it to say, the Cincinnati Reds are one of the best pro sports stories to come along in a long time. If you can't like what's been going on 100 miles north, you probably don't like apple pie, either. (Hopefully, you do like Mom.) Heading into the baseball playoffs, I give you four reasons why I love the 2012 Cincinnati Reds.

1. The Reds are as old school as McGuffey's Reader. OK, maybe not that old. The walk-up songs when they bat are more likely to be somebody I've never heard of than Johnny Cash, but think how these guys play. It's fundamental baseball. It's pitching and defense winning the 2-1 games. But there's something else old school about the Reds.
2. They are a home-grown team. Five of the Reds' eight every day starters were drafted by the team and came up through the farm system. The same could be said for about half the pitching staff. But what makes the Reds the home town team is the fact the stars - Votto and Brandon Phillips - did not wait to see what the market could bring in free agency. They signed contracts this year that will keep them in Cincy a long time. You've got to love that.
3. Teddy Kremer. He's not on the Reds' roster. He was just a bat boy one day in August. Teddy, who has Down's Syndrome, touched the Reds in a major way. He was the subject of a moving feature story in The Cincinnati Enquirer several weeks ago. "People are blessed in their own way," Phillips told The Enquirer. "Teddy came in here and blessed us with his energy and his presence that day: Enjoy life, be yourself, go out and play hard. Give it all you got. That's Teddy. He's a reminder to us all."
4. Fun. Yeah, every one of the players is a wealthy man. But these guys genuinely seem to have a bundle of fun. After all, it is a game. I'm not going to predict a World Series win just yet. The head says the offense sputters too much. But the heart is racing faster than an Aroldis Chapman heater. I just hope the heart is right.

Signature shot sends Harrod to state

Anderson junior wins playoff for final berth

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

SPRINGFIELD - Tyler Harrod only needed to be himself.

In a playoff for the final individual berth in the state golf tournament, Harrod dropped an approach shot about 18 inches from the pin, then calmly tapped in his putt to par the extra hole and defeat Green County's Brennan Milby at the Region 4 Golf Tournament last Wednesday.

Playing the 344-yard first hole at Lincoln Homestead Golf Course, near Springfield, Harrod simply did what he had to do.

He hit his tee shot in the rough to the right and in front of the green, but Harrod might have not believed his luck when

Anderson County golfer Tyler Harrod seems to guide his chip shot toward the pin during a playoff round for a state tournament berth last week at Lincoln Homestead. Harrod's shot stopped about 18 inches from the pin.

Milby sent his first shot just behind a tree. Milby tried to loft his ball over the tree - perhaps his only hope of making par and staying alive

- but the ball ricocheted off the tree, landing even further away from the pin and in the rough to the left. He had to use two more shots just to get to the green.

Meanwhile, Harrod, about 75 yards from the pin, used his pitching wedge to drop his second shot just off the green, then put his third shot little more than a club head from the cup.

"That was classic Tyler," said Anderson coach Jim Beward. "I have seen him make that shot about 10 times this year.

FOOTBALL PREVIEW

Bearcats favored but Peach 'mortified' about district trip to West Jessamine

Colts pulled first stunner of district race last week

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

It makes little difference to Mark Peach what the results were the last four times Anderson County has played West Jessamine.

All the Bearcat Anderson County coach sees is 27-21 and 42-21, plus what lies ahead for his team.

Bearcats vs. Colts

When: Friday, Oct. 5, 7:30 p.m.
Where: West Jessamine High School
2101 Wilmore Road, Nicholasville
The series: West Jessamine leads 6-5
First meeting: 1999
Last meeting: 2011 (Anderson Co. 72, West Jessamine 18)

For the record, Anderson has dominated the recent meetings with West Jessamine. The Bearcats have pummeled the Colts like a lame workhorse. The last four times the teams have met, Anderson has taken home victories with a combined score of 189-42. (That's an average of 47.25-10.5 for those who are counting.) Included in that string is a 72-18 win last season at Hollie Warford Stadium.

Fall sports district tourneys to begin

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

District tournament play for fall sports gets underway on Monday, Oct. 8.

Under a new alignment by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, fall team sport districts, with the exception of football, are now roughly the same as those being used by basketball and baseball.

Anderson County soccer and volleyball teams compete in District 30 along with Collins, Shelby County and Spencer County.

Volleyball sees its district tournament get underway Monday at Anderson County High School. Top-seeded Shelby County went undefeated in district play and is favored to win the school's first championship since splitting to form Collins in 2010.

Shelby will be playing Spencer County while Anderson and Collins, teams that split during the season, will also be playing to advance.

Soccer, which underwent a major realignment in the off-season will see both of the district tournaments played at Collins.

Anderson earned the top seed in the girls' tournament, but has been sputtering of late as injuries have taken their toll.

The Lady Bearcats will be playing fourth-seeded Shelby County, a team that took the Lady Bearcats to a shootout last week, on Monday. Second-seeded Collins will be playing Spencer County in the other first round game.

Collins should be a heavy favorite to win the boys' district tournament on its own turf. Collins climbed to the No. 6 spot in the statewide polls last week and then upset No. 2 Trinity. The Titans will play Spencer County while Anderson, which lost to Collins in overtime early in the season, takes on Shelby.

Tickets for all district tournaments are $5 at the gate.

Christian Academy volleyball prepping for state tournaments

The Kentucky Christian Athletic Association volleyball season is drawing to a close. The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg Lady Rams host Highlands out of Louisville on Thursday, Oct. 4, at Fox Creek Christian Church.

The junior varsity match begins at 6 p.m.

On Tuesday, Oct. 9, the Lady Rams face Academy of Individual Excellence for the second time this year. The match will also be at Fox Creek Christian Church.

The Lady Rams JV squad won the first match 21-14, 21-23 and 21-13. The KCAA JV Tourney begins on Friday, Oct. 19 with the varsity tournament opening the following Friday. The tournament will be held at Lindsey Wilson College in Columbia.

Registrations still being taken for Bearcat basketball 5K

The Anderson County Bearcat basketball 5K run/walk is set for Saturday, Oct. 27 at 9 a.m. The race will start behind Anderson County Middle School and will be a mostly flat course and will be controlled by police. There will be a water stop at the halfway point and refreshments will be available at the end of the race.

The race raises money for the Anderson County High School boys' basketball team. Many door prizes will be awarded that day. Pre-registration is $15 per person before Oct. 18. After that date, registration is $20 per person. Participants must register by Oct. 18 to guarantee a t-shirt, which is included in the race fee. FOOTBALL

Yet, all Peach can see is West Jessamine's 27-21 upset of Montgomery County last week along with a 42-21 loss at Franklin County two weeks ago. In that one, West Jessamine led at halftime. Anderson travels to West Jessamine Friday night, Oct. 5. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. Add to the fact that the Bearcats have a long-anticipated showdown at Franklin County waiting next Friday night, Peach quickly describes his feeling heading to Nicholasville. "I am mortified!" Peach says. "General (Robert E.) Lee used to say he was 'mortified.' I am mortified about going to West Jessamine. They are more than capable of beating us."

Two weeks ago, the Colts created a bit of a buzz when they led Franklin, 14-7, at halftime. Friday, they threw a major wrench in the Class 5A, District 6 race when they defeated the Montgomery County team that most had seen as a lock for the playoffs and the probable third seed. "They have one of the biggest and most physical lines in the district," Peach says. "They also have a running back who is very similar to (Mercer County's) James Johnson, but a little bigger." Peach is referring to Devin Taylor, a junior who had run for 1,157 yards in six games before Friday's win over Montgomery. Taylor had accounted for more than 72 percent of West Jessamine's ground game. Taylor's most impressive outing might have been against perennial power John Hardin, when he ran for 126 yards. The Colts do not pass much, having thrown only 44 times before the Montgomery game. Anderson and West Jessamine have one other common foe in Mercer County. Anderson routed the Titans, 48-7, on a night when the Bearcats were clicking. A week earlier, Mercer rallied in the final minute for a 31-28 win. The teams have met on a regular basis since 1999 with West Jessamine holding a 6-5 advantage in the series. Winning the last four of the series by one-sided margins feeds into one of Peach's biggest fears. It is of the Bearcats looking past West Jessamine to Franklin, the district favorite. "You have to talk to them about it," he said. "Kids today are so media savvy with Facebook and Twitter and the Internet. Back when I played (1986-88), the guy you were going up against, you were lucky if you ever talked to him. You might see him at a track meet throwing the shot put. "Now you have kids going up against a guy and they have been talking for two weeks." The computer polls say Anderson is a strong favorite to move to 6-1 on the year. Peach, however, is using caution with a team that has shown enormous potential but is still very young. "We can't look ahead," he says. "If we do, we will have a bad feeling about this game."

Directions to West Jessamine High School

The West Jessamine campus is the location of the old Jessamine County High School. From Lawrenceburg, take 127 South to the Blue Grass Parkway toward Lexington. Get off at Exit 68 and turn right onto Highway 33. Go just over a mile and turn left onto Highway 169 (Pinckard Pike). Stay on 169 to US 68. Turn right on 68 and go just over two miles. Turn left onto Highway 29. Go approximately one mile and the school is on the left.

Regional race muddled

West Jessamine's win over Montgomery County was not the only eye-opener in Class 5A, Region 3 last week. In District 5, pre-season favorite Conner showed why some are saying it is the team to beat on the east side of the state with a 38-21 thumping of previously unbeaten Cooper. Conner was coming off a home-field loss to South Oldham and was dangerously close to being out of the running for a home game in the first round of the playoffs. South Oldham had an easy 55-6 win over Grant County and leads District 5 with a 2-0 record with Conner and Cooper now tied at 1-1 in the district. In District 6, Anderson County and Franklin County both are in the position of controlling their own destinies for the district championship or the important No. 2 seed, which, along with a district champ, hosts the first round of the playoffs. All other teams have at least one loss in district play with Woodford County and Montgomery, the pre-season picks to round out the districts four-team playoff contingent, both winless after two games.

No mess (what?) as Bearcats slog past Woodford County

Third quarter outburst seals district win

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

There wasn't much messy about Anderson County's win over Woodford County last Friday night.

Except, of course, the football field. And the Bearcats' and Yellow Jackets' uniforms. And the shoes of just about anyone who had to be on the rain-soaked field at Warford Stadium. But the game? The reason a near-capacity crowd filed in despite the wet weather?

Anderson rolled to a 21-7 win that didn't even cause any malfunctioning of a brand new scoreboard that had just replaced a model that had been a royal pain for over five years.

Messy? It just looked that way after a wet week turned the field into a bit of a mud pit. It is just part of football.

"We are going to have to learn to play in these conditions," Anderson coach Mark Peach said. "In the playoffs we are going to have to play in this kind of weather. Last year, when we played Southwestern (in the state semi-finals), it was a mess."

The Bearcats learned they cannot turn the ball over, wet ground or dry, as two first-half turnovers denied the Bearcats when they were driving for a score. Peach, however, was philosophical. "It is about experience," he said. "It is understanding when things are not there. This was a great learning experience for our kids."

After taking the opening kickoff, the Bearcats methodically marched from their own 25 to the Woodford 26 before Woodford's Jarrien Holds picked off a Zach Carmichael pass at the Yellow Jacket 2.

Then, midway through the second quarter, Woodford's Conrad Smart swiped another Carmichael pass at the Woodford 15.

Yet, even with the two big turnovers limiting Anderson to a 7-0 half-time lead, the Bearcats seemed in firm control. "We didn't take advantage of all our opportunities," Peach said.

Anderson had scored when Carmichael hit Dusty Puckett for a 24-yard pass with just over two minutes left in the first quarter.

And by halftime, it was apparent that Anderson was the better team.

Woodford managed just 39 yards offense in the first half as the Anderson line just dominated. Inside linebacker Tristan Ashburn was repeatedly bringing Woodford ball carriers down and ended up being credited with 8.5 stops.

"He is playing at such a high level now. He was just super tonight," Peach said.

Ross Cox had also smelled out a swing pass from Woodford quarterback Kainan Hudson to Kaine Buchanan-Maxberry, sending it to an 11-yard loss early in the second quarter.

"Coach (Duane) Hammons (Anderson's defensive coordinator) and the coaching staff and the kids have done a great job," Peach said. "This is the third straight game we have held our opponent to a touchdown or less."

But at the break, the lead was only one touchdown, despite averaging nearly 6 yards a play on first down in the first half. "Coach told us to take a deep breath and translate what we were doing on first down to second and third down," said Anderson running back Granville Hayes.

Anderson County running back Granville Hayes motors up field on his way to a 61-yard run that set up the Bearcats' second touchdown in their win over Woodford County.

It was a second-and-four situation when Hayes got loose for what might have been Anderson's biggest play of the night. Two plays after Houston Page recovered a fumble at the Anderson 31, Hayes broke a tackle at the line of scrimmage, then followed a block and raced to the Woodford 2.

On the next snap, Ross Cox scampered to the end zone to make it 14-0.

Hayes ran for 131 yards, the second consecutive week he had set a career best.

Just over three minutes later, after Puckett recovered another Woodford fumble at the Jacket 39, the sophomore sped across the middle, hauled in a perfectly thrown pass from Carmichael and raced untouched to the end zone for his second score of the night and sixth of the season.

Joe Rose's extra point made it 21-0 and effectively put things out of reach.

Woodford finally found the end zone when Smart ran the ball in from four yards out to cap a 72-yard drive. It was Woodford's only sustained march of the night.

Anderson won its fifth straight after a season-opening loss to Bryan Station and improved to 2-0 in Class 5A, District 6 play. Woodford is going in the opposite direction, dropping its third straight and falling to 3-3 on the year. Woodford is now 0-2 in district play.

Game notes

The contest was delayed for 30 minutes after a pre-game lightning storm hit the area. "Steve (Stonebraker, the Woodford coach) and I were talking and all of a sudden we saw and heard lightning. We had to wait 30 minutes, but we decided to start at 8," Anderson coach Mark Peach said.

"I am very proud of how the kids played in this mess."

Woodford now leads the all-time series between the schools 21-17-2.

Anderson capped a spirited Homecoming week with the win. While the annual parade was canceled due to inclement weather on Thursday, Peach said the school had many other activities.

"I love Homecoming week," Peach said.

Lady Bearcat guns take shootout at the Shelby corral

Anderson escapes, will play rival again in district tourney elimination game

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Rivalry games often have unexpected results.

Anderson County worked overtime, and them some, to put away district rival Shelby County in a shootout last Friday at the Shelby County Athletic Complex.

The Lady Bearcats outscored Shelby, 4-2, in the penalty kick segment of the contest to go 3-0 in district play. Anderson, after a loss at Bardstown on Saturday, stood at 7-10-2 heading into the final week of the regular season.

Shelby, which fell to 0-3 in the district, is 10-7-1 overall.

The teams will play again on Monday, Oct. 8, in the opening round of the 30th District Tournament, to be held at Collins High School in Shelbyville.

Friday's match probably should have not been close, as Anderson was a solid favorite, but the Lady Bearcats were unable to find the net.

"The game was frustrating as we seemed to control most of the possession but were unable to score," Anderson coach Jason Earnest said. "We didn't take a large amount of shots but we did have most of the possession and we weren't threatened much."

"The couple of chances Shelby had were very dangerous."

Anderson held a 15-3 advantage in shots at the end of regulation.

"Shelby County has one player that is very dangerous," Earnest said. "They have her playing in their center defense and there were a couple of times where she took the ball off the dribble and dribbled through all of us and came very close to scoring."

In the sudden death overtime, Anderson had some chances, but it was a play by keeper Alyssa Rogers that saved the day.

"With two minutes to go in the second overtime, Shelby's best player got through and got a breakaway," Earnest said. "I have no idea how Alyssa Rogers made the save but somehow she was able to get her leg out fast enough to tip the shot wide off the post."

In the shootout,

Anderson County's Joy Andrade (20) passes to a teammate as Shelby County's Logan Hall defends during Friday's match in Shelbyville.

Anderson got goals from Madeline Wilson, Makenzie Cann, Allie Johnson and Niki Curtsinger while Rogers made a pair of spectacular saves.

Curtsinger's goal clinched the victory.

"I hate that we couldn't score in regulation," said Earnest, "but winning a penalty kick shootout was pretty big for us."

When the teams meet again in the 30th District Tournament on Monday, one will be playing its final game of the season.

"We didn't kill them, so I am positive we won't overlook them," Earnest said. "However, it is a team we should have beaten soundly and now they believe they can play with us and beat us."

Anderson, the district's top seed, will not be a stranger to playing on artificial turf, which covers the Collins pitch. The Lady Bearcats played three games in the Boyle County tour-namment and a game at Woodford County on the fake grass.

Play is generally faster on the artificial surface.

"We have four games on it this year and I think we have played pretty well on it," Earnest said. "Due to all of the rain lately, it has to be an advantage to the more-skilled teams."

Collins, at 14-2-1, has been playing the best soccer in the district of late, Earnest said. However, Anderson defeated Collins, 2-0, in August.

Bardstown 6, Anderson Co. 0

Bardstown was not a place where the sun was shining bright on the Lady Bearcats Saturday evening as the host Lady Tigers thumped the Lady Bearcats.

"Saturday's game at Bardstown was awful," Earnest said. "Maybe we were tired from the night before. Maybe we were just not focused, not wanting to be there. I am not sure what it was."

Earnest said he could tell something was amiss in warmups and saw Bardstown roll to a 3-0 lead in the first 15 minutes.

"I benched the entire roster, except my lone senior playing that day, Andrea Melanson. She was all over the place, but we as a team were awful."

Earnest said he benched his first-teamers for much of the second half, as well.

"We took a tough hit on that game," he said. "Hopefully, we can get our confidence back before next week and the districts."

HARROD

"After (Milby) hit the tree, I knew Tyler had the advantage."

Harrod looked fully composed but admitted, "I was relieved when that third shot landed. I just wanted to tap it in."

He did. Harrod burst into tears as he greeted teammates and well-wishers near the green where he had become the first Anderson qualifier for the boys' state tournament since JoJo White in 2008.

Both players finished 18 holes with a 76.

For much of the day, though, it looked as if there would only be the questions of "What if?" around the Bearcat team.

Anderson compiled a 321 team score, good enough for a fourth-place tie with Taylor County, but 26 strokes behind regional winner West Jessamine, ranked No. 2 in the state.

Adair County came in second with a 305 while Danville was third at 310.

At the outset, Anderson could do little right as a team. Harrod missed an easy putt on the first hole and double bogeyed No. 2.

Another junior who was expected to compete for a state berth, Lee Robinson, hit two balls out of bounds on the first hole and another on No. 2. Robinson finished with an uncharacteristic 7-over at 79.

It was not expected as the Bearcat varsity had played the Lincoln Homestead course five times. Individual players had hit the course for several other rounds. "They had the book on the course," Beward said.

But the start was like they had never seen the lay of the land.

"I think part of it was nerves," said Beward, noting the pressure that comes with the regional tournament.

In addition to Harrod and Robinson, Nick Wilson shot an 80 while Zach Toles came in with an 86. Gabe McMichael's 90 was dropped.

"I couldn't be more proud of how the kids played," Beward said.

Part of it might have also come from arriving at Lincoln Homestead to play on Tuesday, but then being sent home by rain and thunderstorms before any Anderson golfer got on the course. "We were here for 2.5 hours in the cart house," Beward said of Tuesday's postponement. "We came (Wednesday) and it didn't feel just right."

"But I sensed at the turn that they had some grit left." Indeed.

Harrod found himself 9-over after 13 holes but suddenly caught fire with an even par on 14, then earning an eagle on the the 586-yard No. 15 and a birdie on the 510-yard No. 16. Both holes are par 5.

Harrod followed with a birdie on 17 then made par on 18, overcoming a second shot that landed next to the paved path through the course.

"I just got motivated," Harrod said.

The wait might have been excruciating for Harrod. It was quickly apparent that the Bearcat team would not end its 18-year state tournament drought. Danville's 310 was posted soon after Robinson, Anderson's final golfer finished his round with the tourney favorites still coming in.

Harrod watched quietly to see if his score would hold up. When it did, he simply took a few practice swings, then played the sudden death hole to his strength.

Harrod will play a practice round Thursday at the Bowling Green Country Club, where the state tournament will be held.

He will come back for 18 holes on Friday, then, if he makes the cut, will come back for another 18 holes on Saturday.
